Biography

Recognized for her vast experience, Dominique advises French and international clients on all labor aspects of their activities. Dominique focuses on workforce reorganizations, plant closure, transfer of activities and Tupe rules, and social consequences of mergers, acquisitions or divestitures. She also advises companies on employees' representatives and unions relationships, negotiation of company agreements, and collective status of employees.

Clients are reassured by Dominique's deep insight into the French employment law system gained through her many years of experience, advising notably in the pharmaceutical and industrial sectors. An excellent litigator, Dominique represents employers in proceedings with union-organized campaigns and employee representative bodies before the French Labor and Civil Courts. "Sources trust her judgement, regarding her as skilled and experienced in this field." (Chambers Europe 2015)
